Van Besouw 100% Cotton Carpet featured in Maine Home + Design

Livingston, NJ – The August 2010 edition of Maine Home + Design features a private residence on the southern coast of Maine that was recently remodeled. To keep the family's allergies at bay, the décor required the use of hypo-allergenic materials. Van Besouw of Holland's 100% cotton carpet was chosen by ARQ Architects, to be the broadloom used in this extraordinary home. David Numark, owner of Summit International Flooring and ARQ worked closely together to specify colors and styles to fit the décor perfectly.

"The family absolutely loves the area rugs. They use the summer home more often than expected; finding the finishes to be comfy and cozy. Because the carpeting is imported from Holland, there was the expected waiting period before the rugs could be imported, cut and installed, but they feel the wait was very worthwhile. They are thrilled that the cotton carpets are helping them control their allergies," said Lucinda Schlaffer of ARQ Architects.

In order to be certain that Van Besouw carpeting was going to truly be hypo-allergenic for the children, multiple samples were provided so that they could test it for a period of time before it was actually specified for the project. Howe's Highway Floor Store of Wells, Maine cut the carpet into the area rugs seen in the photos.

Van Besouw 100% cotton carpet is perfect for installations where there may be allergies to wool or other fibers. This luxurious carpet is durable, cleans easily (think of how often one washes cotton clothing) and is offered in a myriad of highly saturated colors. In fact, Van Besouw 100% cotton carpet is installed in the Hyatt Hotel, Place Vendome in Paris in all of its' guest rooms.
